

Course Sequence for Enrollment

General Instructions: The recommended enrollment is six hours (6) per term. However, if students are not employed, they may wish to consider enrolling in nine hours (9), though this is not recommended. Also in some cases, student may elect to enroll in one (1) class per term, which is possible with careful planning to ensure a timely completion.

In all cases, students are responsible for developing their own Plan of Study (POS) for which courses will be taken which term by following the sequences shown in this document. Due to the once-yearly offering of some classes, students are advised to follow the enrollment pattern carefully to avoid a situation in which it would be necessary to wait a full calendar year for a class to be offered again.

This information should be used to guide your enrollment. Be sure to put the POS on the wiki when completed and checked against the required enrollment sequence shown in this document. Each term the students use their POS to guide them in each semester's enrollment. Students who do not enroll in the sequence shown in this document may find that they are delayed in completing their studies since not all classes are offered all semesters. It is the student's responsibility to enroll in the sequence shown in this document.

There are two sections of every course: 901 (distance degree) and 990 (GoArmyEd). The courses are the same, only the sections numbers are different. Unless the student is enrolled via the GoArmyEd 990 section, the general distance education sections of the courses are the 901 sections.

Each student will be assigned an advisor to guide in developing various projects within the program, to answer questions related to career applications of the degree and other general exchanges; however, the advisor is not responsible for creating the POS. Each student will use the information in this document to determine his/her own schedule following the sequences shown here. However, the POS will be available to the advisor if he/she needs to review it for some other reason than enrollment. The student has the responsibility of determining his/her own enrollment schedule, based on the information provided in this document.
